The race to the finish line

A good morning for a paddle, even if a little brisk to start off with.
As can be seen above the run to the line was very close indeed.

We tried out a new course format to take advantage of a little swell that was running.
This seemed to work well so In future we will be varying the course to take advantage of the local conditions to try and get as much downwind and swell run time as possible during the course of the events.
